Democracy In Action

Y heads for the local school to pick between a Democratic incompetent and a Republican moron.

Easy, since the Dem might sort a problem out by chance while rooting for lost keys, whereas the Republican will do nothing and never shut up about it.

(Y has boned up on the all but incomprehensible ballot questions, yet knows zip of the judges he could keep or jettison.)

Polls favor the Republican but within the margin of error.

Last commercials of moron suggesting, therefore, the Democrat queer.

Most advisers prefer stopping there.
Decided thirst persists for a screaming flagwaver, though, positively HD.